

Rest Stop

SHARE

During a cross-country drive this past winter, my friends and I arrived in Texas just after a freak blizzard blanketed Amarillo. We raced each other through the snow like kids to get a close-up look at the upended cars of the famous Cadillac Ranch before darkness set in.

Photographer: Julie Mehta

I'm a writer living in the San Francisco Bay Area who loves to travel and doesn't think there's any such thing as "too many pictures."